COMMUNITY COLLABORATION CHALLENGE

WITH SUPPORT FROM THE
NEW YORK LIFE FOUNDATION

The National Partnership for Student Success (NPSS) is excited to launch a stipend program with support from the New York Life Foundation. This stipend program is designed to help connect schools and districts with high-quality providers of NPSS-aligned supports—tutors, mentors, student success coaches, wraparound/integrated student support coordinators, and post-secondary transition coaches—in their communities.

These $5,000 stipends are to be used to host local catalyst events that bring together school and district leaders, local non-profits, colleges and universities, student and family groups, local government agencies, and other community leaders in conversation about where and how to bring more evidence-based, people-powered supports to young people through collaboration.

In addition to funding, grantees will also have access to technical assistance from the NPSS Hub in the form of tools, guidance, access to networks, support identifying local high-quality student support providers, and connections to other communities.

The application for the Community Collaboration Challenge opens January 25th with awards being announced in late March of 2023. Awardees should plan and hold these connector events in late spring or summer in the lead up to the new school year.
